

Sunshine Moments that go through the stomach

You can learn one thing in particular from the locals on the sunny side of the Alps: how to really enjoy life! Delicious dishes have evolved in the valleys and basins over the centuries, in line with regional circumstances. Nowadays this traditional cuisine combines an explosion of tastes like no other.

Sustainably regional

It's easy to work up an appetite in the gentle alpine world of the Nockberge, where not just outdoor activity but also the fresh mountain air gears you towards traditional food. Because they still know how to cook here in the Bad Kleinkirchheim region: hearty, substantial and with regional produce. Of particular importance: the traditional cuisine has been focusing on sustainability for centuries. Vegetables are selected according to season and meat and dairy products are sourced from local farms. Dishes are equally seasonal: wonderfully light in summer and of substance on cold winter days.

Southern way of life

Alongside tradition, you will clearly taste the proximity to the Mediterranean kitchen here in the Alpine-Adriatic region. Regional products complement southern herbs and recipes, creating new delights that combine regionality, tradition and southern mentality.

Rustic huts and gourmet establishments

When it comes to food, the Bad Kleinkirchheim region has plenty to offer, from rustically traditional with wooden dining areas and hearty menus to fine dining with regional specialties of the highest level. Gourmets are sure to find what their heart desires here.
